

Domino's® is Saying No to Shrinkflation by Launching MOREflation

September 9, 2024

While other companies are giving customers less for their money, Domino's is giving them more

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 9, 2024 /PRNewswire/ -- Shrinkflation seems to be everywhere these days, but not at Domino's Pizza Inc. (NYSE: DPZ). The largest pizza company in the world is taking a stand against shrinkflation by giving customers more food for the same price. Introducing MOREflation: when online customers mix and match any two or more medium two-topping pizzas from Domino's for $6.99 each, they can upgrade one of their pizzas to a large for free from Sept. 9-29.

While other companies are giving customers less for their money, Domino's is giving them more.

"As a response to high inflation, many companies are shrinking products to avoid raising prices," said Joe Jordan, Domino's president of U.S. and global services. "We understand that consumers are looking for great-tasting, affordable meal options. That's why we've taken our biggest and best offer – our mix and match deal – and made it even better by giving customers more pizza for the same price."

Consumers want to get the most out of their hard-earned money and Domino's MOREflation deal is yet another way the brand is delivering renowned value, when it matters most.

"We've always been dedicated to providing delicious food at a great price to customers," Jordan continued. "From our enhanced loyalty program, Domino's Rewards, which makes it even easier for members to earn free items more often, to launching our Carryout Tips and Emergency Pizza programs – we're constantly looking at innovative ways we can provide value."

Customers can choose from Hand Tossed, Thin Crust or New York Style Crust for their upgraded large pizza, allowing them to customize their pizza, just the way they like it.

To take advantage of the deal, customers should visit dominos.com or use Domino's app, select the MOREflation offer, and place their order. Get MOREflation, not shrinkflation – only at Domino's.
